Review - by Stuart Cameron

What is 'Rush Released'?

Rush Released is the promotional cd from Hotdisc which features a mix of major and independent Country acts from all over the world who have released fresh new product. It is sent to djs and media people throughout Europe, which is its target audience but also key names outside Europe. The aim is to generate airplay and coverage for the hottest new songs. Djs report back their reaction and the Hotdisc Chart is compiled every week illustrating exactly what tracks are getting the seal of approval from the industry. Looking after Rush Released is just one part of the Hotdisc brand. It produces radio and television programmes for the media in the world of entertainment, sports and music and Stuart Cameron is at the core of it all. His love for Country music and his support for British acts in particular goes back over 30 years and he uses that experience to help promote talented acts all over the world.

Latest edition

The latest edition of Rush Released is out and tracks from it are being played all over Europe and Australia. The promotional cd has a new look and each month we take a look at six of the acts included in the edition in more detail. Don't forget Hotdisc's Rush Released cd is available for free download by any djs who don't yet receive it. Just get in touch via the website at www.hotdisc.net.

Nicki Gillis

The popular Australian is a big hit in Europe thanks to her taking the effort and trouble to fly over here to meet the media and play live for the Country music fans. So many acts balk at the prospect of coming to a new territory and effectively starting from scratch, playing smaller venues to less people but the ones who do realise that this is what you have to do make inroads into the market place and eventually win through. Nicki is one of those who is enjoying and will continue to enjoy, a big following in the UK as she treats Britain as a challenge. Her latest single is a co-write, Be A Star and is set to do as well as her other tracks over here. Look out 'cos the likeable gal will be back in the UK soon.

Chris Heers

What a brilliant writer this man is. On his website there's an interesting statement to greet all viewers. 'If Steven Spielberg and Ron Howard wrote songs this is what they would sound like.' It goes on to say that Chris Heers writes in technicolour and one listen to his music and you can understand what that statement is saying. This is honest Country from a man from Las Vegas who delivers with style and polish. His new single is Cow Or Cowboy from the album Western Stars. We are going to be hearing much more from him.

Aubrey Lovejoy

He may be a veteran of the British Country music scene but Aubrey Lovejoy is still undoubtedly one of the best. Back in the 70s and 80s the man was topping the bill at every Country music festival worth its salt and although he's been taking it easy for the last few years he is now back with a brand new album and set to make live appearances throughout the UK once again to promote the cd which is called Silence In The Wind. The American recorded album features the latest single, Neon Moon which is an excellent cover of the Brooks & Dunn hit.

Gary Curtis

We've written about Gary Curtis several times in the past and we make no apology for doing so again. His album is picking up substantial airplay throughout Europe and Australia and he keeps pouring out the hits. His latest to arrive is Too Good To Be Mine which was written by Alexander Stuart and Jay Vernali. The album is Cut Me Loose and this successful British performer and actor is surely going to enjoy yet another success.
